Perlick Rolls Out Polished Chrome Forward-Sealing Beer Faucet

MILWAUKEE— Last year, Perlick’s 630SS Stainless Steel and 630SSTF Stainless Steel Tarnish Free Forward Sealing Faucets set new style and performance standards for beer and wine dispensing, and the market responded.

Now, Perlick is extending the appeal of the 630 Series with the new 630PC Polished Chrome edition for beer dispensing. The 630PC combines the affordability of a low-lead brass body for beer dispensing with advanced Forward Sealing technology. Forward Sealing employs a revolutionary ball and floating O-ring design, which eliminates the need for a valve shaft. Beer is not exposed to air, so the handle lever doesn’t stick, and there’s no place in the faucet body for mold and bacteria to accumulate.

Among key features:

630PC Flow Control Faucet With Forward Sealing

- Polished chrome finish adds style and is easy to maintain.
- Patented Forward Sealing design eliminates the need for a valve shaft. No vent holes to clean.
- Because of the Forward Sealing design, internal parts are not exposed to air—no buildup of mold or bacteria in the faucet body. Handle will not stick.
- Spout angle is more vertical than typical to allow more thorough draining after each pour—no horizontal area for beer to settle.
- Fewer internal parts than conventional faucets mean improved reliability and fewer service calls.
- Polished interior offers smooth flow, less agitation, less foaming.
- Fits all North American shanks.
- Easy cleaning—may be cleaned in place—saves you time and money.
